FOREWORD

The fifteenth edition of THE INTERNATIONAL WHO'S WHO once more appears, in the words of a recent reviewer, as the harbinger of spring. Many famous names are no longer to be found in the new edition. Not least in honour among those who have died in the last year were His Majesty King Gustav V who, esteemed and loved by his people, reigned over Sweden for nearly half a century; the Right Honourable William Mackenzie King, for so long Premier of Canada; and Mr. George Bernard Shaw who, in our last edition, described himself as "playwright and philosopher, creative evolutionist, and co-founder of Fabian socialism", and was indeed one of the intellectual giants of his age. Their countries, and the world at large, are the poorer for the loss of three such outstanding personalities.

We have made every endeavour to provide our readers with the latest possible information about the people whose names appear in the new edition. We are glad to say that, in many cases, changes occurring as late as March and April this year have been recorded.

The response to past editions of this work encourages us to believe that THE INTERNATIONAL WHO'S WHO does meet the ever-growing need for concise, accurate and up-to-date information about the world's most eminent living personalities.

Finally, we wish to express our thanks to all those who, by completing questionnaires or by correcting proofs sent to them, have enabled us to bring our information up-to-date.

April 1951.
